

Alexander S. Kritikos

Research Director - Entrepreneurship, German Institute for Economic Research

Alexander S. Kritikos is Research Director for Entrepreneurship at the German Institute for Economic Research, Professor for Industrial and Institutional Economics at the University of Potsdam, and Research Fellow of the Institute for the Study of Labor (IZA), Bonn.

Born in 1965, he studied economics and political sciences at the University of Munich where he received his degree as Diplom-Volkswirt. After a scholarship at the 'post graduate programme for Applied Microeconomics' of the Free University of Berlin he received his doctoral degree in Economics at the Humboldt-University of Berlin in 1996 and his habilitation in Economics at the European University Viadrina in 2003. Alexander Kritikos was Research Fellow of the German Marshall Fund in Washington (1999), EU-TMR Research Fellow at der Athens University of Economics (2000).

He is member of the Economic Policy Committee and of the Social Sciences Committee of the German Economic Association. Since 2010 he is Associate Editor of Small Business Economics. His research interests are Entrepreneurship Research, Experimental and Behavioral Economics, and Institutional Economics.